States race to restrict deepfake porn as it becomes easier to create

Deepfakes — digitally altered photos and videos that can make someone appear to be, or be doing, just about anything — have proliferated on the internet, and in 2023, pornography made up 98% of all deepfake videos online. Now, many states are competing deepfake porn by adding to existing laws or enacting new ones.

FEATURED STORY

Deepfakes — digitally altered photos and videos that can make someone appear to be, or be doing, just about anything — have proliferated on the internet, and in 2023, pornography made up 98% of all deepfake videos online. Now, many states are competing deepfake porn by adding to existing laws or enacting new ones.

WHAT WE'RE READING

States race to restrict deepfake porn as it becomes easier to create

Deepfakes — digitally altered photos and videos that can make someone appear to be, or be doing, just about anything — have proliferated on the internet, and in 2023, pornography made up 98% of all deepfake videos online. Now, many states are competing deepfake porn by adding to existing laws or enacting new ones.